The Medicine that Cures
—IS—VEGETINE.

Taking into consideration the character of its vouchers, the history of its cures and the immense increasing demand, VEGETINE may be fairly entitled the leading medicine of the age.

For scrofula in the blood, VEGETINE is an infallible remedy, and no person need suffer from tumors, ulcers, and all diseases arising from impure blood, if VEGETINE is used according to directions. There is not a case of scrofula in existence that VEGETINE will not cure, provided, however, the vital functions have not lost their power of action, all that may be said to the contrary notwithstanding.

VEGETINE is pleasant to the taste, mild in its influence, and absolute in its action on disease, as the following unquestionable evidence will show.

PAID NEARLY $400.00!!

JANUARY 2, 1875.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq:

Dear Sir: When about six months old I was vaccinated. The parties who were vaccinated from the same virus died from the humor. The humor spread over me to such an extent that I was rolled in bran to prevent me from scratching my person. The disease finally settled in my head, I remained in this condition about twenty years, troubled all the time with sores breaking in my head and discharging corruption from my ear. At this time a small kernel appeared on my neck, gradually increasing in size until a tumor formed of such immense size I could see it by turning my eyes downward. All this time I was taking various remedies for my blood without any substantial benefit.

I then went to a prominent physician in Boston who, during his treatment of six months, lanced the tumor eight times, which cost me nearly $500. This left me with a rough, aggravated sore, without at all diminishing the size of the tumor, and in a sickly, feeble condition. I consulted another physician in Natick, who, after considerable time, succeeded in healing the sore without reducing the size. At this point I commenced to use VEGETINE, through the earnest persuasion of a friend. After I had taken this medicine about one week I experienced wonderful sensations. My whole body seemed to be undergoing a radical change, until, finally, the tumor broke and discharged frightful quantities. From this time it decreased in size until the bunch disappeared, but my neck still bears the ugly scars of the sore and the lance. I am now healthy and strong and able to work every day.

I will also mention that I have been an acute sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism ever since I can remember, until commencing the use of VEGETINE, when almost immediately all rheumatic pains ceased. This statement I volunteer for the purpose of benefiting other suffering humanity; and you will confer a favor by giving it as much publicity as thought proper.

Very gratefully,
O. M. SAYELS, Ashland, Mass.

What is Vegetine?

It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is nature's remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you a good, sweet sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them nature's sweet sleep—as has been proved by many an aged person. It is the great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it. It relieves and cures all diseases originating from impure blood. Try the VEGETINE. Give it a fair trial for your complaints; then you will say to your friend, neighbor and acquaintance, "Try it, it has cured me."

Report from a Practical Chemist and Apothecary.

BOSTON, Jan 1, 1874.

Dear Sir: This is to certify that I have sold at retail 154½ dozen (1852 bottles) of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given the best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testifying to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several cases of Scrofulous Tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity.

Very respectfully yours,
A. I. GILMAN, 468 Broadway.

To H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

VEGETINE IS SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

RHODE ISLAND AND MILL OPERATIVES.

HOURS OF LABOR.—WAGES.—THE TENEMENT QUESTION.—EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES OF THE WORKING PEOPLE.—SAVINGS AND SUFFRAGE.

In the course of a long editorial in reply to strictures by the New York Herald and the Providence Sun on the treatment of mill operatives in Rhode Island the Providence Journal makes the following statements :—

The truth is that the working people of Rhode Island are among the best paid, most contented, prosperous, intelligent workmen in the world. Nowhere, on God's green earth, does honest labor meet with a better remuneration ; nowhere is it held in higher honor; nowhere does it better understand its rights ; nowhere is it better able to defend them ; and nowhere does it entertain a deeper contempt for the lazy orators who never did an honest day's work, and who vainly try to persuade men who believe in work that wages can be earned without it, that agitation or legislation can give to the idle the rewards of the industrious. "Fifteen hours a day for only five dollars a week" is the sensational heading of the letter in the Sun. Ten hours of labor in our mills instead of 15 hours a day or 90 a week, are from 63 to 66 a week. If in exceptional and occasional cases they are more, the additional hours are at the pleasure of the workmen, and with a proportionate increase in the wages. So far as practicable the work is done by the piece, and in any difference about hours, upon such work, at this time, at least, the workmen, would be in favor of the greater number and the employers for the less; for at this time labor receives all the profit of manufacturing, and capital none; nor would many of the mills continue in operation, but for the hope of better times and for the fact that stopping their machinery causes great loss. And instead of five dollars a week, a good overseer commands from fifteen to eighteen dollars a week; and a smart girl, at the loom, will earn more, after deducting her board, than the wages of domestic service, more than the pay of teachers in the primary schools, more than the average salary of a governess. We know of no female labor that is better paid than in our factories.

The tenements from which, according to the Sun, the help in the factories are ejected, with remorseless cruelty, on the first indication of a spirit of independence, are built for those who work in the mills, and when they cease to work there and go elsewhere they have no further use for them, and they are needed by their successors. It would be just as reasonable to complain that a lighthouse-keeper is "ejected" from the house attached to the light, when he ceases to be the keeper of it. These houses are all needed for the help in the mills to which they belong, and are not needed by anybody else. They are, especially the later ones, far more comfortable and desirable than the ordinary dwellings of laboring men. It is understood by every manufacturer that good houses and low rents attract the best class of help, and make them more contented. The rents are very low, not a quarter of the price paid for tenement houses for the corresponding class in New York, while in convenience, and comfort and wholesomeness, they are palaces compared with the best of them.

The common schools of Rhode Island are among the best in the world. They are open to all, and the accommodations are ample for all; and education is so far compulsory that children are not permitted by law to work in the mills, without having attended school three months in each year. The schoolhouses are not only commodious, but many of them elegant and costly, some of them extravagantly so. In all the considerable villages are lyceums or associations, before which courses of lectures are given in the Winter evenings. Not long since, these columns contained an account of the dedication of a fine building, erected by one of our large mill owners, a building constructed for preaching, and open to all denominations, for a Sunday school, library, reading room and lyceum, all without cost to those for whom it was erected. It is larger and more commodious than nine-tenths of the rural churches in New England were a few years ago, and than nineteen twentieths of those in New York are now. At the opening of this hall, the Episcopal bishop, one of the professors of the university and the two Senators from the state were among the speakers, and it was their unanimous declaration that they had seldom spoken to so intelligent, well dressed, and to all appearances, prosperous and contented an audience. The public libraries in some of our factory villages number thousands of well selected books, which are largely taken out.

The story that the workmen in our factories are not permitted to read the newspapers, or that they are restricted to those which reflect the views of their employers, is one of the most ridiculous of all these falsehoods. Newspapers of all kinds, good, bad—some of them very bad—and indifferent, are circulated in the villages.

Rhode Island, in spite of her ungrateful soil, is one of the richest communities in the world, and her wealth is the result of honest industry, intelligently directed, and of economical habits and moderate expenditure. Nor, although there are very rich men among us, is that wealth mainly accumulated in few hands. How well it is distributed is attested by the savings banks, in which the total deposits are about $200 for every soul in the state; how intelligent are those who have put by this comfortable sum for a rainy day, is attested by the utter failure of the recent attempt, inspired by ignorance or malice, or both, to institute a run upon the banks. Many of our mills are owned by men who worked in them when they were boys, and who, by industry and economy, have passed from poverty to competency, and from competency to wealth.

The men who work in the mills are under no political disfranchisement. Thousands of them are voters, and their votes are cast as independently, are divided as much among the several parties, as the votes of any other class. Our suffrage is less liberal than that of the states around us in this respect: A small property qualification is required of persons of foreign nativity. But this restriction applies equally to the manufacturing, the agricultural, the mechanical, the commercial and all other classes. For persons born within the United States, the qualification is the payment of assessed taxes or the voluntary contribution of one dollar a year to the support of public education. Whether the restriction upon the foreign suffrage be right or wrong in principle, it is the traditional policy under which the state has grown up, and it has had an excellent effect upon our foreign population, by inducing them to invest their earnings in small house lots, and to become householders, than which few conditions add more to respectability, virtue and prosperity. This is a reason why the foreign population of this state compares most favorably with that of other states, where they have less attachment to the land and less interest in the commonwealth.

THE DAY.

Dr. Helmbold has been placed in the Bloomingdale asylum for the insane. Persons who met him last month in this city will not be surprised to learn this.

The Fall River News understands that Mr. Chaffee, the agent of the Sprague mills, has notified his help of his intention again to reduce wages, the price of weaving per cut of 42 yards, for which he now pays 21 cents to be reduced to 19 cents.

The St. Louis Shephard, a Catholic organ, declares that "the freedom of religious opinion is wrong, and that when the Catholics obtain the ascendancy in this country—as they certainly will—no such freedom should be allowed." This is an interesting fact to bear in mind.

New Hampshire is the dark and bloody ground. Her history for a few months past resembles the Newgate Calendar. A brutal outrage and murder was committed at Pembroke, N. H., yesterday. A young lady left her home for school in the morning, and her body was found in some bushes in the evening, headless and horribly mutilated.

In its defence of "Boss" Shepherd and the District ring the New York Graphic has spoken eloquently of the quality of the paving and other work done by the ring. If the work were well done it would not justify doing it illegally, defying Congress, and burdening the taxpayers with taxes unauthorized. But the following dispatch to the New York Evening Post looks as if the Graphic must have been mistaken in its fulsome flattery of Shepherd, Harrington, Murtagh, et al.

The district commissioners have a large force of hands employed tearing up the streets paved with wooden blocks, and are relaying the same with concrete. This is done at the expense of contractors who have failed to keep streets in good condition. If the commissioners fail to recover from the contractors the amounts thus being expended, the citizens will have to pay for new pavements now laying, and the debt of the District will be increased several hundred thousand dollars."

WEST POINT CADETSHIP.

To the Editor of the Daily News:—

Permit me through your columns to give notice to the young men of the first Congressional district that I have been requested by the Secretary of War to nominate a candidate for appointment, as cadet, to the United States military academy at West Point, and that a competitive examination for the nomination will be held by a board of examiners, at the office of the commissioner of public schools, No. 104 North Main street, in the city of Providence, on Wednesday, the 27th day of October instant at 10 o'clock, A. M.

By the regulations for admission to the military academy, candidates must be actual residents of the Congressional district from which the appointment is made. They must be between seventeen and twenty two years of age, at least five feet in height and free from any deformity, disease or infirmity which may render them unfit for military service. They must be well versed in reading, in writing, including orthography, and in arithmetic, and have a knowledge of the elements of English grammar, of descriptive geography, particularly of our own country and of the history of the United States.

The general qualifications are a sound body and constitution, good natural capacity, an aptitude for study, industrious habits, perseverance, an obedient and orderly disposition and a correct moral deportment.

Candidates who desire to compete for the nomination are requested to apply, on or before the 23d day of October instant, by letter stating age and residence to the Hon. Thomas B. Stockwell, commissioner of public schools.

PORTSMOUTH.

While the town of Middletown is one of the most pleasant and richest towns in the state, still there are some pleasant places and agreeable people in this town. Of these people, Mr. Elbert J. Anderson is one of the most agreeable, and here his fine place and picture gallery are located, reporters and newspaper writers to the contrary not withstanding, and here the golden wedding was celebrated.

The pastors of the several churches were in their places on Sunday morning and afternoon as usual, with the exception of Rev. I. S. Jones, of the Christian church. The pulpit at that church on Sunday afternoon was supplied by the Rev. J. O. Kimball, of Newport, who gave an excellent discourse, which also had the very great merit of being of a reasonable length.

Mrs. Mary Ann Manchester, wife of Thomas Manchester, a member of the choir of St. Mary's church, attended service as usual on Sunday morning and took part in the opening exercises. Soon after 11 o'clock, she complained of distress, and was taken home, where she had fits of convulsions. Dr. Benj. Greene, of this town, and Dr. Henry E. Turner, of Newport, were called to her assistance, but medical skill was of no avail, and she died between 11 and 12 o'clock on Sunday evening, living about twelve hours from the time she was taken. Mrs. Manchester was highly esteemed by all who were acquainted with her.

The young people of the Christian society are to give a dramatic entertainment at Oakland Hall, on Friday evening, the 8th inst. The entertainments usually given by these young people have always been very popular, and they are always greeted by full houses. Already a large proportion of the reserved seats have been taken. Next Friday evening the entertainment will have the additional attraction of singing by the Newport Glee Club.

Drawing in Public Schools.—Rumor has it that one of the most important subjects likely to occupy the attention of the reconstructed school committee of Boston will be the abolition of the position of drawing master of the schools in this city. Many educators—whose opinions are entitled to respect—believe that the time devoted to drawing in some of the public schools defrauds pupils of necessary instruction in branches which would be of use to them throughout life.—[Boston Transcript.

The Wiard Gun.—Mr. Norman Wiard has begun again his experimental tests of great guns rifled after his plan. The experiments are conducted on Nutt Island, Boston harbor, under the government direction. On Saturday, with a charge of 70 pounds of powder from a cheap cast-iron gun of 15-inch calibre, rifled after his plan, he sent an improved chilled cast-iron Wiard shot, weighing 539 pounds, through five plates of cast-iron, each three inches thick, and then through three feet and nine inches of gravel. The experiment was highly satisfactory.—[Boston Advertiser, 4th.

Little Compton.—The Rev. S. D. Hart, the newly installed pastor of the United Congregational church, occupied his pulpit for the first time yesterday. He used for his text those stirring words of Paul to the Corinthians: "For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ and Him crucified." The speaker manifested much sincerity of heart and of purpose, and the whole service was appropriate and impressive. Mr. Hart is a young man of much promise; and commences his labors here in many respects under very favorable circumstances. There is an unusual interest manifested in the welfare of this old church, the second in age of the Congregational churches of Rhode Island, and with a record of which any church might well be proud. The floral decorations, under the care of Miss Helen Tompkins, were profuse and beautiful.

LADY CAROLINE LAMB.

AN ECCENTRIC WOMAN.—HER ATTEMPTS AT SUICIDE.—HOW SHE DEFEATED HER HUSBAND'S RELATIONS.

Lady Caroline Lamb I never saw, but from friends of mine who were well acquainted with her I have heard manifold instances of her extraordinary character and conduct. I remember my friend Mr. Harness telling me that, dancing with him one night at a great ball, she suddenly amazed him by the challenge: "Gueth how many pairth of thtockingth I have on." (Her ladyship lisped, and her particular graciousness to Mr. Harness was the result of Lord Byron's school intimacy with and regard for him.) Finding her partner quite unequal to the piece of divination proposed to him, she put forth a very pretty little foot, from which she lifted the petticoat ankle high, lisping out, "Thixth."

I believe it was on the occasion of that same ball that she asked Lord Byron to waltz with her, when, probably irritated by her impertinent disregard of the infirmity which was always so bitter a mortification to him, he not only refused, saying, "You know I cannot," but added, "and you or any other woman ought not." (His poetical vituperation of the dance, then first coming into vogue, will be remembered.) Upon this rebuff the lady went to a dressing room, and throwing open a window rushed out upon the balcony, and exclaiming in the words of St. Preux under the rocks of La Meillerais: "La roche est escarpee! l'eau est profonde!" prepared to precipitate herself, not into the blue waters of Lake Leman, but on to the hard hearted pavement of a London street, which travesty of Rousseau's tragedy being timely averted by a friendly and firm clutch at her ladyship's skirts behind, she desired to have a glass of water which being brought her, she set her teeth in the glass and broke it, and proceeded to cut her throat with the jagged edge; but this being also interfered with as injudicious, she was finally persuaded to postpone her despair to a more convenient season, and go home to bed. I have heard another version of the above attempted suicide, which made a pair of scissors snatched from the dressing-table and about to be plunged into her bosom the remedy of the lady for her outraged feelings. She might have equally illustrated her self-murder by a French quotation from Scribe's funny little piece of Les Premieres Amours: "L'arme fatal etait deja levee sur son sein! c'etait une paire de ciseaux."

Her flighty and eccentric conduct with regard to Lord Byron, and the many unaccountable vagaries in which she indulged, at length brought her husband's family and friends to the unanimous resolution of using all possible influence to induce him to part from her. Much urgent persuasion was brought to bear upon the kindly, amiable gentleman, and a promise at length extorted from him by his irritated relations to separate himself from his crazy consort.

His firmness, however, was not supposed of a nature to be intrusted with the management of the parting, and he went off to Brocket Hall, leaving his sister to break his determination to Lady Caroline, and afterwards to follow him with the news of how she had received the expression of his resolution never to see her again. The interview between the wife and sister-in-law took place, and the offending lady was emphatically apprised of her husband's stern determination with regard to her; after which several members of Mr. Lamb's family left town for Hertfordshire, to tell him how the matter had gone, to strengthen him in his resolution, and comfort him in his desolation. Arrived at Brocket, they sought the disconsolate husband in vain in the house and grounds till in a remote summer-house in the park he was discovered with Lady Caroline, en Amazone, sitting in his lap and feeding him with dainty slices of bread and butter, which she was literally putting into his mouth. The countenances of the relations must have been curious to see.

Among Lady Caroline's accomplishments was that of being a first rate horsewoman. On parting from her sister-in-law she had mounted her horse and ridden as hard as she could ride straight to Brocket, to tell her husband herself how she had taken his sentence against her. I never read Glenarvon, in which I believe Lady Caroline is supposed to have intended to represent her idol, Lord Byron, and the only composition of hers with which I am acquainted is the pretty song of Waters of Elle, of which I think she also wrote the air. She was undoubtedly very clever in spite of her silliness, and possessed that sort of attraction, often as powerful as unaccountable, which belongs sometimes to women so little distinguished by great personal beauty that they have suggested the French observation that "ce sont les femmes laides qui font les grandes passions."—[Frances Anne Kemble, in Atlantic for October.

Some people are too trusting for this world. At a recent trial the prisoner entered a plea of "not guilty," when one of the jurymen put on his hat and started for the door. The judge called him back and informed him that he couldn't leave until that case was tried. "Tried?" queried the juror, "why he acknowledges that he is not guilty!"—[Milwaukee Sentinel.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—The city council meets tonight.

—Three lodgers spent last night at the station house.

—A German ball was given on Levin street last evening.

—Officer Albro arrested Thomas Ferguson last night for vagrancy.

—Examinations at the torpedo station began yesterday, and will close Saturday.

—Prof. Farmer has returned from his vacation and resumed his duties at the torpedo station.

—James Field, Michael Killion and Thomas Breeze were arrested yesterday for drunkenness.

—Many Fall River people speak highly of Mayor Slocum's treatment of the Fall River begging committee which came here last week.

—Everybody interested in the subject of temperance is invited to be present at the meeting in the Union Congregational church this evening, at 8 o'clock. Several prominent speakers will deliver addresses.

—During the quarter ending Sept. 30th the sale of stamps here was over $1,430, greater than during any previous quarter of the office's history. The sales of money orders during the same time exceeded that of any previous quarter by over $1,000.

—Thomas Logan, William Bishop, Thomas Jackman, William Crook, John Price, George Parr, Henry Hickish, Edward Watson, H. Harris, Albert Pearson, Thomas Williams and William Boyd are "stragglers" from the Bellerophon, and £5 is offered for their return.

—Mrs. Finkenstaedt has at her store on the hill all the novelties in fashionable fancy work and no end of beautiful things which can be easily made up between now and Christmas. Christmas is but ten weeks off; none too much time to set all those stitches.

—A large Newfoundland dog of Gen. Potter's recently caught a forty pound bass. The fish got into shallow water where the dog discovered it. He caught it by the back, drove it between two rocks and after something of a fight captured it. The fish was sold for $4. The dog has been somewhat famous heretofore for catching scup.

—The steamer Old Colony went to Fall River today, to go under the derrick, in order to remove her old smoke-stacks, and to place in position the new ones built here at the company's shop, but sent there by rail, as there are no facilities in Newport for such a job. She will return here immediately to finish up for her Winter's work.

Worth Knowing.—Newport people visiting New York will do well to keep in mind that they can find at the Westminster Hotel the most satisfactory accommodations. This house is located on the corner of Irving place and Sixteenth street but one block from Union square and Broadway, being near enough to that thoroughfare for convenience and at the same time far enough off for quiet. It is on the European plan, and has all the modern improvements. A brief visit to the Westminster convinces us that no better place can be found in the great city. Its central location and admirable service make it in all respects a most desirable and enjoyable hotel.

Golden Wedding.—The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Anderson was celebrated at their beautiful country seat in Portsmouth yesterday. There were many guests present. The day was golden, there are few more charming drives than the road between that place and Newport and probably there has been no more enjoyable occasion this season. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were married fifty years ago in the house now occupied by Gen. Warren on Thames street and two of yesterday's guests were present at that ceremony.

The house, which is spacious and well adapted for entertaining was finely decorated with flowers which were also brought by the guests in great profusion. There were many gifts of gold and a number of poems written for the occasion, one of fifty lines by C. T. Brooks, each line relating to each of the fifty anniversaries. The gift of one well known writer of books was "A Sack of Gold."

A superb luncheon was served, some of the guests partaking of it on the piazza and under the fine old trees on the lawn. The picture gallery was thrown open, there was the conventional wedding cake, a band of music, dancing by the young people and altogether a combination of delightful things.

We wish for Mr. and Mrs. Anderson many anniversaries yet, as delightful as that of yesterday.

Offence Given by Newspapers.—There is "a power of truth," as Aunt Jerusha used to say, in the following remarks of the N. Y. Herald about newspapers: "The truth is that there is scarcely a newspaper published from one end of the year to the other that will not, if critically considered, give offence to somebody in the community. The politician objects to the way his speech is reported. The buyer of one set of shares is offended because the money column reports another set as going up or going down. Gentlemen who find themselves in the hands of the police are grieved at the license of the press which reports their arraignment and trial among the police proceedings. The sympathizer with France is offended at letters from Berlin, and the believer in German unity mourns over despatches from Paris. The newspaper thus offends some one, just as the weather—rainy today and sunshine tomorrow—is sure to annoy somebody. The common-sense view is that the newspaper is the history of yesterday written today; that it is the mirror of the time, and that those who conduct it care nothing for religious denominations except to do them justice. The purpose animating not only the Herald, but every respectable journal, is to encourage and foster all religious beliefs, leaving to each clergyman the defence of his particular creed."

A German General on Washington.—Professor G. W. Greene, in the October Atlantic, gives these curious utterances of General DeKalb, when serving under Washington:—

"He is the most amiable, kind hearted, and upright of men; but as a general he is too indolent, too slow, and far too weak; besides, he has a tinge of vanity in his composition and overestimates himself. In my opinion, whatever success he may have will be owing to good luck and to the blunders of his adversaries, rather than to his abilities. I may even say that he does not know how to improve upon the grossest blunders of the enemy. He has not yet overcome his old prejudices against the French." This language sounds strangely as applied to Washington; yet it is historically important to know that it was actually used, though at the time of the Conway cabal, when Washington's enemies were bold and loud. But there is no reason to suppose that DeKalb was in any way connected with that infamous intrigue.

A few weeks later his opinion is materially modified. "He is the bravest and truest of men," he writes, "has the best intentions and a sound judgment. I am convinced that he would accomplish substantial results if he would only act more upon his own responsibility; but it is a pity that he is so weak, and has the worst of advisers in the men who enjoy his confidence." He has already written, "It is unfortunate that Washington is so easily led." This is nearly the language of Lee and Reed a year before. They had all mistaken for want of decision the self-distrust which arose from a consciousness of inexperience. It was not long before De Kalb's opinion was still further modified. "He must be a very modest man. ...... He did and does more every day than could be expected from any general in the world in the same circumstances, and ...... I think him the only proper person, ... by his natural and acquired capacity, his bravery, good sense, uprightness, and honesty to keep up the army and people, and ...... I look upon him as the sole defender of his country's cause. Thus much I thought myself obliged to say on this head. I only could wish in my private opinion he would take more upon himself and trust more to his own excellent judgment than to councils."

An Old Confederate's Patriotism.—A little while after, he read a patriotic speech made at Augusta, Georgia, by an ex-Confederate officer, on Decoration Day. The speech was warmly welcomed by the North. The gentleman said, "I could not have spoken in that manner. Yet, believe me, I am glad that some one has. And the ladies strowed flowers upon the graves of the Federal dead! I am glad, I am very glad of that!"

Later still, he read General Bartlett's speech at the Lexington Centennial. It was printed beside a reprint of General Evans's speech, in the same column of the paper.

Those two noble and vigorous utterances could have had but one effect upon that generous spirit. They stirred it to its very depths. The agitated man arose from his chair, and with his eyes streaming with tears read in a faltering voice many of the most striking passages in both the speeches. At length, overcome, he buried his face in his hands and surrendered himself to his emotion.

He said finally, "I must confess it. I wish that I were young again and that I could take part in this renewal of confidence. But, as I told you, I am outside the pale; I must be content to gaze and do nothing more. You should feel happy. Your generation has now but one task. That is to make your judges all over the country, punish your evil-doers: it is all comprised in that. Give me your hand; say at home that the people here are amazingly like the people there: that they can respect and reason, and can love honorable things."—[From Southern Home-politics, by Albert F. Webster, in October Atlantic.

A Busy Life.—Mr. Delano, like Mr. Beecher, in his letter of resignation appealed to the charity of the public to cover his multitude of sins by pleading his exhausting labors. The latter had the great church, the great newspaper, and a great many other great things to manage, and the former, in addition to the manifold duties with which the public are acquainted, had, as he himself says, much to do of which they were ignorant, and, perhaps (Delano did not say this), blissfully so. Somebody, however—a member of the press, of course—has taken the trouble to investigate the labors of the ex-Secretary, and the facts are before the people; Mr. Delano was Secretary of the Interior for four years and ten months, and during that time he was absent from his office exactly 712 days, or just 42 per cent. of the whole time, for which he drew $16,933.39, which he did not earn, and to which he was not, therefore, entitled. If Mr. Delano and his former master were "docked," as the workingmen say, for every day they absented themselves from their posts, one would be less wealthy and the other would own fewer Hambletonian colts. But then, who would think of running a government upon the principles on which private business is conducted?

Civil Service Reform.—Mr. R. Holland Duell, the new commissioner of patents, is reported to have the ordinary qualifications for his office. He was a member of the last House, and voted with the majority on every test question. It is true he knows nothing about patents, but it can be proved by any reasonable number of witnesses that he voted for the force bill at the last session of Congress, and as his constituents refused to re-elect him he is clearly entitled to some snug office. People who have or expect to have anything to do with the patent office may regret that Mr. Duell should have been pensioned off in that quarter; but they will not probably be sufficiently unreasonable to question the propriety of rewarding his services in some way. That he dropped into the chair of commissioner of patents is one of the kind of calamities which are sometimes attributed to chance. By the time Mr. Duell has been in the patent office two years he will know enough about his business to set up as a patent attorney. It is apparent, therefore, that if the office suffers, the man will be benefited, and thus one of the chief purposes of modern government will be accomplished.—[San Francisco Daily Morning Call.

Cutting up the Great Ranchos.—The San Francisco Bulletin says, "Cutting up the great ranchos has been the policy of their owners for the past year or two. During that time half a dozen or more of the largest ranchos in the southern counties, where most of those reserves exist, have been divided into small lots convenient for settlements and thrown upon the market. The Stearns Ranchos, Centinello, Lotapoo, San Fernando and Cucamongo are among the number that have been thus subdivided, representing nearly a million acres of the very best arable land in the southern part of the state. The new departure has done much to encourage immigration and bona fide settlement than any other attraction the state has been able to present. The land owners have realized more money than they possibly could any other way. Immense tracts which, previous to subdivision, would not have brought more than $5 or $10 per acre, have been sold in small lots under the auctioneer's hammer at from $25 to $100 per acre. Communities have sprung into existence in the very midst of solitude, and the virgin soil is made to yield up its treasures under the magic touch of the ploughshare. The good work of cutting up the ranchos is still going on."

The most simple, most durable and handsomest sewing machine yet invented. Effects of Dissipation Counteracted.

Alcoholic excesses cannot be too earnestly deprecated, both for their destructive effects upon the constitution and their pernicious influence upon man's general welfare. At the same time there is little probability that he will cease to indulge in them until the end of time. Common humanity would therefore seem to dictate the suggestion of the most efficient means of counteracting their effects. There is not among medicated stimulants one so admirably calculated to counteract the physical consequences of hard drinking as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which relieve the nausea and headache produced by it, steady the trembling nerves, and yield that unfeverish repose which is the best recuperant of health shaken by excess. The bilious symptoms caused by dissipation are promptly relieved by the Bitters, which are also an excellent remedy for all disorders affecting the stomach, bowels, liver and urinary organs, to which it imparts unwonted regularity and tone. sept29-n&j-1w

Time works wonders and so does Hunt's Remedy. Sufferers from dropsy, Bright's disease, kidney, bladder and glandular complaints, retention and incontinence of the urine, gravel, diabetes, female irregularities, pain in the back and loins, general prostration of the nerve structure and afflictions of the urino-genital organs will disappear after a few doses of this valuable and strictly vegetable compound, and health will be firmly re-established. sept22-1w-n&j

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, for the Cure of Consumption, Coughs, and Colds.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus effects a cure.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic, for the Cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, &c.

The Tonic produces a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle, and curing the most obstinate cases of Indigestion.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the Cure of Liver Complaint, &c.

These pills are alterative, and produce a healthy action of the liver without the least danger, as they are free from calomel, and yet more efficacious in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption, as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create a healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of Consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic gives tone and strength to the stomach, makes a good digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines for sale by all Druggists. sept6-1m

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

A Scheme by Which Alaska can be Made Paying Property.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.

It is understood that Secretary Bristow in his annual report will strongly recommend the repeal of the law placing the mainland of Alaska under the Indian intercourse act, which would transfer the care from the War to the Treasury Department as it was in 1873. It is represented that by giving the territory a good government, valuable interests can be developed, such as trade in sea otter and salmon fisheries, the tax on which, in addition to the $316,000 annually received from the seal fisheries, would give the government more than six per cent. per annum on the cost of the territory.

The Safe Robbery Ring Before the Courts.

Evans, Fisher, Leighton and Green were to have been arraigned this morning and a day fixed for trial on the indictment for conspiracy to procure false bail for Snyder, the burglar, but the arraignment was postponed for two weeks. Evans and Leighton were held to bail in $4000 each for appearance, and Fisher and Green remain in prison. It is stated that three more persons will be indicted for the same offence.

The Treasury Robbery.

The counsel for Ottman, who is accused of being concerned in the $47,000 Treasury larceny, says arrangements will be completed by Wednesday for the release of Ottman on $25,000 bail. No attempt has been made to bail Halleck and Brown, who are connected with the same transaction. The trial of the above named parties is not expected before November. The grand jury have not examined the case of the Treasury larceny parties.

The Naval Frauds in San Frarisco.

Information is received at the Navy Department from San Francisco that fraudulent certificates of indebtedness have been issued in that city by G. M. Finney, clerk to Navy-Inspector Spaulding in that city. The amount is about $750,000, but the loss will fall upon individuals and not upon the government.

Embezzlement by a U. S. Marshal.

Mr. Torrey, a clerk in the fourth auditor's office, has returned from Colorado, whither he went to investigate the charges of fraud and embezzlement preferred against ex-Marshal Schoffenburg. Torrey will report tomorrow to the Attorney-General that Schoffenburg is guilty upon all the charges, and that his embezzlement will probably reach $100,000. Schoffenburg is now under $20,000 bail.

The Bible in the Chicago Schools.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Chicago presbytery today resolutions were adopted deprecating the action of the board of education here in removing the Bible from the public schools, and praying all the friends of good government to unite in measures for its restoration. The resolutions disclaim any intention of interfering with religious liberty, but ask for the Bible as a proven friend and essential to the well-being of the state.

VIRGINIA.

The Lottery Swindles.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 4.

The Gazette says that the Montpelier Female Association lottery scheme was a fraud. It is believed that not a single dollar was drawn by any bona-fide ticket-holder, but the whole of it was retained by New Yord sharpers, who are accused of the entire fraud.

SPINOSA'S EXCOMMUNICATION BY THE JEWS.—"We have a custom," said a Jewish gentleman to me, "that when a Jew falls away from the faith of his forefathers, and openly reviles their sacred rites and customs, he is solemnly excommunicated in the synagogue. It is a thing seldom done, because it is very horrible, and because it is seldom required; but it was done in the case of Spinosa. He was brought into the synagogue, which was hung with black; lighted tapers of black wax were held in the hands of the assembled people; the chief rabbi pronounced a discourse recounting Spinosa's crimes against his faith. Then all present approached the centre of the synagogue, and held their tapers sideways over a large cauldron filled with blood, while the candles slowly dripped their wax into the blood, a chant was sung in low, harsh tones, reciting the curses of men against the infidel, and calling down upon him the vengeance of the Most High. When the chant came to an end, the tapers were suddenly extinguished in the blood, and the synagogue was filled with darkness, and there reigned the silence of the grave."

It is satisfactory to reflect that Spinosa recovered some amount of cheerfulness after the performance of this horrible ceremony. Almost the only fact connected with his life that I can recollect is that, in later life, he used to derive amusement from making spiders fight together in a box; whereat, it is reported, he would laugh till the tears ran down his cheeks.—[Latouche's Travels in Portugal.

STOVES.

The undersigned has on hand a full line of

COOK & PARLOR STOVES.

The superiority of the DOMESTIC RANGE over many others is acknowledged, and upwards of 300 are now in use in this city. Have them both with and without hot-closet. PALLAS RANGE is something new. It is furnished with and without lower hot closet. It is really worth seeing as it is one of most highly finished ranges in the market. It has six holes and a large surface. It has a broiling door without one going to the trouble of taking off the covers and thus allowing the gas to escape. It has a handy towel rack on the side, has good large oven with shaking and dumping grate and ash pan. They are arranged so that water fronts can be put in. Mounted with nickel plated knobs, and the upper closet entirely of cast iron.

FOR PARLOR STOVES
THE AMERICAN BASE BURNER AND THE SUPERIOR
will be found on hand. The public knows what those stoves are. A good supply of the Banner Cylinder Stoves.
All the above will be sold at living prices. Just call and see them for yourself.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1875.

MOTHER GOOSE

As It Should Be.

HIGH DIDDLE-DIDDLE.

A cat who in vain to her hearers had sung,
Eliciting scanty applause,
Concluded to try a more exquisite strain
On a violin played by her claws.

But, oh ! All her previous songs had been sweet
Compared to that terrible tune;
A cow, having heard it, went instantly mad,
And fairly jumped over the moon.

A dog, having nerves that were tol'rably strong
Was simply amused by the scene ;
While a dish and a spoon the confusion employed
Their hasty elopement to screen.

JACK AND JILL.

"To climb that stately eminence,"
Says Jill to Jack, "I go ;
And if thou lov'st, then follow me,
Follow in weal or woe."

Says Jack to Jill; "Whate'er thou wilt,
Thy will is law to me ;
And if to climb thou dost desire,
'Lead on ! I'll follow thee !' "

They climbed the hill, but all too soon
Repentance came to Jill ;
For Jack he tripped upon a stone,
And tumbled down the hill.

"O Jack ! O Jack ! My own true love !
Oh, 'What a fall was there !'
Behold ! Like thee, I'll crack my crown.
For what thou dar'st, I dare !

"I called on thee to follow me,
Whilst climbing up the hill."
With one wild shriek, "I follow thee !"
Were the last words of Jill.

HICKORY DICKORY DOCK.

A tiny quadruped essayed
A dizzy height to climb;
Where mystic symbols, circling round,
Marked out the course of time.

The height is gained, the goal attained,
When, mark his trembling fears !
A loud report, a horrid din
Assails his shuddering ears !

At once he deems his hour is come;
He sees in vision rise
Each stolen cake, each purloined crumb,
Like ghosts before his eyes.

With guilty speed, with beating heart,
Down from that height he tore,
Sought out the earth's remotest depths,
And ne'er was heard of more.
—[A. P., in Boston Advertiser.

NAPOLEON.

A RUDENESS THAT COST THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND LIVES.—HOW HE TREATED HIS GENERALS.

NAPOLEON I. was always in too great a hurry. This characteristic quality especially showed itself when he set about committing that most profitless of crimes, the divorce of Josephine. He first thought of marrying the Grand Duchess Anne, sister of the Emperor of Russia. Before Caulaincourt, the French ambassador at St. Petersburgh, had had time to sound the czar on the subject, Napoleon had changed his mind and decided on an alliance with the house of Hapsburg. Such being the case, his course was clear enough; viz., to instruct Caulaincourt not to press his suit too eagerly, to show no disposition to smooth away difficulties, and to allow the negotiation gradually to fail to the ground. Instead of this Napoleon sent a letter, probably without precedent in the annals of courtship, in which he ordered his ambassador to present a kind of matrimonial ultimatum to the czar, demanding a categorical answer, before the expiration of ten days, to his proposal. Of course this was to ensure a refusal, and so to set the emperor at liberty, but at the cost of affronting the only monarch on the continent of Europe whom Napoleon had reason to fear. Three hundred thousand French soldiers were to pay with their lives for this piece of brainless impertinence. But such are the natural results of imperialism, or the government of a nation for the benefit of an individual. Will France return to this rule ?

He was born a king, if to command the obedience of men be the whole art of kingship, which may perhaps be doubted. He seems in general to have acted on the plan of Frederick the great; that is, he demanded nothing but success from his lieutenants, and was careless of the means they took to obtain it. Only failure he would never forgive. It was a favorite saying of his that he never judged men but by results. It was to no purpose that Massena gave excellent reason for his defeat by Wellington: Napoleon wanted victories, and not explanations. There is a foolish story, to which so eminent a man as Southey could give credence, to the effect that Admiral Villeneuve was assassinated by order of the emperor after his disgrace at Trafalgar. There can be no serious doubt that the unfortunate commander committed suicide in sheer terror at the idea of an interview with the stern master whose plans he had caused to miscarry.

It is fair to add that those of his captains who were successful had no need to complain that their services were insufficiently appreciated. Even Massena had acquired an income of $100,000 while his star was in the ascendant. Soult had $60,000 a year, Ney nearly $150,000; Davoust $180,000; while Berthier, Prince of Neuchatel, enjoyed a princely revenue of some $270,000. "They will no longer fight," Napoleon once exclaimed in a moment of dejection, referring to his generals. "I have made them too rich."

It may be suspected that it was rather from motives of policy than of gratitude that Napoleon thus created the fortunes of his marshals in a day. He was anxious to establish as a support to his throne a powerful aristocracy which in splendor and (to do him justice) in the brilliancy of its achievements should rival the old nobility of France. He forgot, however, that though monarchy and democracy can exist and have existed without prescription, an aristocracy to be venerable must absolutely bear the seal of antiquity. In none of his projects had Cromwell failed more hopelessly than in his attempt to reconstruct the House of Lords in England. Napoleon, it is true, did not propose to confer legislative functions on his nobles as such; nevertheless he intended them to be a privileged class, and this alone was a more courageous than wise idea on the morrow of 1789.—[The Galaxy for October.

"Did my moustache trouble you?" said he to her. "No," she signed, "I only felt a little down in the mouth."

"WIFE AND MOTHER."—The British Association for the protection of the franchise against the encroachment of women has its origin in the conviction that we remember to have heard stated with a great deal of unction, that the duties of a woman are those of a wife and mother. This assertion has at least the fortification of one great truth, which is that nobody but a woman can be a wife and mother. That is a cardinal fact upon which Mr. Bouverie is immovably planted. From that position he can not be driven by argument nor seduced by blandishment. And what, then is his next step? Simply that a woman ought to be a wife and mother, and nothing else. What could be more logical? See how clear it is by applying the same logic elsewhere. The truth that woman only can be wife and mother is no more evident or incontrovertible than that man alone can be husband and father. Consequently men ought to be husbands and fathers, and nothing else. It is their heaven-appointed sphere, as is beautifully remarked in the case of women. When Miss Smith says that she owns property, and ought to be consulted in its public disposition, the reply of the British Association for the P. of the F. against the E. of W. is that her true sphere is not politics, but that of wife and mother. And how if the shameless woman should say in the town-meeting which frowns sorrowfully at her encroachments and struggles against nature, that the meeting was composed of men, and that their true sphere was not politics, but that of husband and father ?—[Editor's Easy Chair, in Harper's Magazine for October.
